National Coalition for Core Arts Standards
Theatre Model Cornerstone Assessment: (HS Advanced)

Discipline: Theatre
Artistic Processes: Creating, Performing, Responding, Connecting
Title: Devising Theatre

Central Focus:
Students will create a collaborative devised theatre piece by engaging in an active exploration of a theme/issue/idea. Students will use space and architecture, rhythm, movement, sound, light, text and tension to craft their piece. In crafting their piece the students will understand that:
- Form informs content and content informs form
- All the elements of the stage have equal value in telling the story
- Collaboration is the primary mode of creating devised theatre.

Grade: High School Advanced

Estimate Time for Teaching and Assessment:

☒ Approximately 25 - 30 hours
☐ To be determined by the individual teacher
Strategies for Embedding in Instruction [possible sequence & strategies to embed Model Cornerstone Assessment within a classroom unit]

Phases of the Unit:
1. Introduction/Prior knowledge recap
2. Research and Dramaturgy
3. Creating and Responding – Devising theater
4. Editing and Creating Narrative Structure
5. Performance and Reflection

Detailed Assessment Procedures

Pre-Assessment for Learning:
Initial brainstorm about devising: What do the students already know about devising theatre? What experience have they had devising work?
Gallery Walk

Formative Assessment (as learning) teacher created:
Ongoing class devised activities
Dramaturgical casebook development
Collaboration Rubric (sample included)
Devised Project Checklist: Development of performance and reflection (to inform their editing work)

Summative Assessment (of learning):
Dramaturgical casebook rubric (informing performance)
5-minute performance (video)
Devised Scene Rubric

Post-Assessment for Learning:
Teacher created student self-reflection
Key Vocabulary

Devised theatre: Creation of an original performance piece by an ensemble.

Dramaturgy: the dramaturg’s duties are (1) to select and prepare play-texts for performance; (2) to advise directors and actors; and (3) to educate the audience. To fulfill these duties, dramaturgs serve as script readers, translators, theatre historians, play adaptors or even playwrights, directorial assistants or sometimes apprentice directors, critics of works-in-progress and talent scouts. (Cardullo, Bert. What is Dramaturgy? New York: Peter Lang Publishing, 2005. pp 3–4.)

Dramaturgical Casebook: a collection of the dramaturg’s research and work

Knowledge and Skills

The students will be able to:

1. Students will identify and describe elements of the stage (including, but not limited to: space and architecture, rhythm, movement, sound, light, text and tension.)
2. Research elements of the stage, and their chosen topic to create a dramaturgical casebook.
3. Interpret their theme/topic through the use of the elements of the stage (including, but not limited to: space and architecture, rhythm, movement, sound, light, text and tension) and how they can be used as tools in a devised piece.
4. Students will identify and describe 4 different types of narrative structure: multiple perspectives based on an event or theme, narration following one person’s perspective on an event, memory: recalling events, work arranged by theme or individual stories.
5. Utilizing their research and their chosen narrative structure, students will create a 5 minute devised scene based on their theme or topic.
6. Present their scene to a local audience and prepare a final self-reflection.

Instructional Materials:
- Research materials: Newspaper articles / headlines, poems, photographs, visual art, YouTube videos, music, quotes, speech & any other materials from the theme being explored.
- Flip chart / butcher paper & markers
- Light sources, material, random clothing (hats, tie, jackets etc.), sound system, other objects.
- A clear space, preferably with tables and chairs to the side of the room. Depending on the group focus, the research materials may be spread out so they can see them when they come into the room. If not, materials can be distributed in the Informing phase.

Instructional Resources:

Complicate: Teachers Notes on Devising

“The Play Detectives” by Michael Bigelow Dixon

“How to Read a Play: Thirty ways to understand a script” by Michael Bigelow Dixon

Games for Actors and Non-Actors by Augusto Boal (translated by Adrian Jackson)

Artistic Websites

Narrative

Frantic Assembly, a UK theatre company who focus on devised physical theatre. Stockholm is one example. It is about the relationship between a man and woman.

Beautiful Burnout is another physical theatre show by Frantic Assembly. This one is about boxing.

Laramie Project by Tectonic Theater Company is an example of ensemble research.

Who’s Louis Theater Company is in Salt Lake City. Their work is created and performed by young people

Sojourn Theatre are a contemporary theater company based in NY. They use multimedia and play with the boundaries of the performance space.

Dramaturgical Casebook Assignment

Assignment: Students will create a Dramaturgical Casebook in Google Slides. Begin researching your topic and considering the research from a dramaturgical perspective. Your casebook must include the following research:

Step 1: Research: (40 points)
- Find at least 5 photographs, images or paintings that represent your theme.
- Find evidence of 2 opposing perspectives expressed through newspaper articles, poetry, music lyrics, YouTube and/or quotes and speeches.

Step 2: Dramaturgy: (60 points)
Ask students to select 3 elements of the stage to begin interpreting as a tool to be used in creating a devised piece and as a device to further their theme in the performance piece.

Responses can be short written answers, images, drawings, etc.

Space & architecture (this influences blocking and stage design): What is the literal space and architecture? What is a symbolic or interpretive representation of the space and architecture? For example, are there sharp lines, circles, repeated patterns, or something else? How can space and architecture be used to enhance your devised piece?

Movement: What are the movements or gestures that people are making? How can movement or gesture be used symbolically to express the theme/sentiment/conflict etc.? How will you use movement or gesture to explore the theme and enhance the story?

Light: What colors come to mind? What are the literal light source needs? How can light be used as a symbolic, interpretive or emotional representation? How will you use light to explore the theme and enhance the story?

Sound: What are the literal sounds potentially needed in the scene? In what ways can the literal sounds become symbolic sounds? How will you use literal and symbolic sounds to explore the theme and enhance the story?

Text: Find lines/text from popular music, newspaper articles, headlines, YouTube videos, poems, quotes and speeches and personal reflections, that show at least two different perspectives on your topic or theme. Select three lines/sentences/phrases that capture the essence of the theme. How will you use text to explore the theme and enhance the story?

Rhythm: What patterns can be created with the visual elements/staging? How can pace and repetition be used for auditory sound (e.g. text, music, sound). How can pace and repetition be used in movement and gesture? How will you use rhythm to explore the theme and enhance the story?

Tension: What are the opposing ideas in the theme? Who has the power in this situation and why? How will you use tension to explore the theme and enhance the story? Choose at least one of the following tools to explore tension:
1. Collage the words of two opposing ideas/opinions and places to use repetition;
2. Find two opposing pieces of music and put them side by side
3. Contrast sound and action. For example, a fight scene to slow, classical music, or a romantic scene to heavy metal.

Drama Casebook Checklist

Research:

Did you include at least 5 photographs, images or paintings that represent your theme? (10 pts)
Did you include evidence of 2 opposing perspectives expressed through newspaper articles, poetry, music lyrics, YouTube and/or quotes and speeches? (10 pts)

Dramaturgy:
Each element chosen will be graded based on the criteria explained in the assignment.

Element 1: ________________________(20 pts)
Element 2: ________________________(20 pts)
Element 3: ________________________(20 pts)

Devising Project Checklist

What is your theme?

What is the guiding question you are trying to answer in your piece?

Space and Architecture: We used the following elements of space and architecture in our devising piece:
- Scale
- Positive and negative space
- Time period and place
- Set pieces
- Levels, patterns and lines
- Audience in relation to the performers?
- Space between performers

Rhythm: We used the following elements of rhythm in our devising piece:
- Repetition
- Breaking rhythm
- Pace of the scene, being on cue
- Pace of speaking, pace of the characters, opposing rhythms
- Backwards or forward in time

Movement: We used the following elements of movement in our devising piece:
- Abstract movement (i.e. dance)
- Gesture (recognizable, daily movement)
- Choreographed movement or gesture
- Learning someone else’s gestures (then add to others) to create a longer sequence
- Repeating one gesture/movement
- Stillness, slow motion, rewind a section
- How are the actors entering the space (i.e. using tableaux)?
- Choreographed ensemble movement versus individual choreographed
Sound: We used the following elements of sound in our devising piece:
- Literal sound
- Symbolic / abstract
- Human made
- Vocal sound such as whispering, speaking soft or loud
- Silence
- Rhythm
- Vocal signatures
- Ensemble speaking
- Is the sound on stage or off stage?
- Different qualities of different sound sources (such as a phone or radio)

Light: We used the following elements of light in our devising piece:
- Colors to set mood
- Different qualities of different light sources, such as a phone or torch
- Who controls the light? Does an actor on stage?
- Darkness versus light
- Changes the scene/time/place

Text: We used the following elements of text in our devising piece:
- What lines can be repeated?
- Ensemble speaking
- Narrator?
- What characters use what type of text? Is text spoken naturally, rapped, spoken as poetry (it can change scene to scene!)
- Text doesn’t necessarily need to be spoken. It can also be choreographed gesture or movement
- Somebody speaks while another person or group is doing a movement or gesture score.

Tension: We used the following elements of tension in our devising piece:
- Contrast ideas / people / sound / movement
- Leave things unfinished (people not saying what they needed to say)
- Repetition
- Buildup of short and quick actions and then silence
- Choral speaking / singing and dramatic action
Select and describe your narrative choice:

- Following multiple perspectives/characters about an event or idea
- Narration: A person viewing a set of events from the third person OR “I”-centered narration (telling one’s own story.)
- Memory: recalling events
- Arranged by theme or individual stories.

Describe how you are using this narrative choice in your devised piece

NOTE: As a measure of collaboration, in addition to scoring students with a collaboration rubric, the teacher may wish to include the following question:
How have you integrated each group member’s individual research and perspective into your performance?

Final Self Reflection

What was the theme your group selected?

What was the guiding question you were trying to answer in your piece?

Which of the following did you use in your final performance? (Check and circle)

- Space and Architecture: scale, positive and negative space, time period and place, set pieces, levels, patterns and lines, audience in relation to the performers, space between performers
- Rhythm: repetition, breaking rhythm, pace of the scene, being on cue, pace of speaking, pace of the characters, opposing rhythms, backwards or forward in time
- Movement: abstract movement (i.e. dance), gesture (recognizable, daily movement), choreographed movement or gesture, learning someone else’s gestures (then add to others) to create a longer sequence, repeating one gesture/movement, stillness, slow motion, rewind a section, how are the actors entering the space (i.e. using tableaux), choreographed ensemble movement versus individual choreographed
- Sound: literal sound, symbolic / abstract, human made, vocal sound such as whispering, speaking soft or loud, silence, rhythm, vocal signatures, ensemble speaking, is the sound on stage or offstage, different qualities of different sound sources (such as a phone or radio)
- Light: colors to set mood, different qualities of different light sources, such as a phone or torch, who controls the light? Does an actor on stage? darkness versus light, changes the scene/time/place
- Text: What lines can be repeated? Ensemble speaking, Narrator? What characters use what type of text? Is text spoken naturally, rapped, spoken as poetry (it can change scene to scene!) Text doesn’t necessarily need to be spoken. It can also be choreographed gesture or movement, somebody speaks while another person or group is doing a movement or gesture score.
- Tension: contrast ideas / people / sound / movement, leave things unfinished (people not saying what they needed to say), repetition, buildup of short and quick actions and then silence, choral speaking / singing and dramatic action

How did your group use the above elements to enhance your theme?

What do you think was the most successful and why?

What do you think was the most challenging aspect about your above choices and why?

What was the narrative your group chose?

- Following multiple perspectives/characters about an event or idea
- Narration: A person viewing a set of events from the third person OR “I”- centered narration (telling one’s own story.)
- Memory: recalling events
- Arranged by theme or individual stories.

How did you apply this narrative choice to your devised piece?

What do you think was the most successful about your narrative choice and why?

What do you think was the most challenging aspect about your narrative choice and why?

In what ways do you feel you were successful in answering your guiding question through your piece?

What would you do differently if you had a chance to create another devised piece?
